"PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE"

Mr. A. E. HENDERSON, B.A., M.A., B.Comm.
Principal, Ross Sheppard Composite High School

I join the members of the staff of this school in wishing you well in your holidays and in your work next year.

We are fortunate in being assigned to such a wonderful building, with such possibility in adjacent grounds. A school, however, is more than a building or a staff; it is a constantly changing group of students whose achievements result in the reputation that tends to become the traditions of this school. You are the people that build the reputation and the traditions. The school provides you with opportunities but what you as an individual do with these opportunities is up to you.

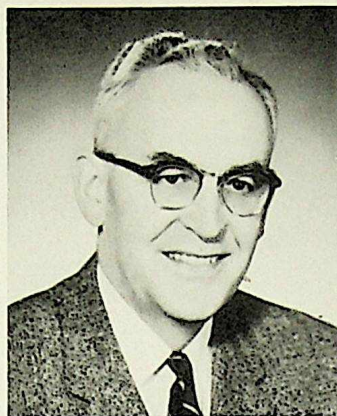

The conduct of an individual should be based on pride or self-respect rather than on fear of consequences. We want you to be proud of your school with the full knowledge that the actions of a few irresponsible ones may destroy the efforts of a much greater number of well behaved students. It becomes the personal responsibility of each and every student to conduct himself in a manner that will bring credit to his school.

We are more concerned with turning out good citizens than scholars, for it is only when knowledge and skills are utilized for the betterment of the community that the individual is a good citizen.

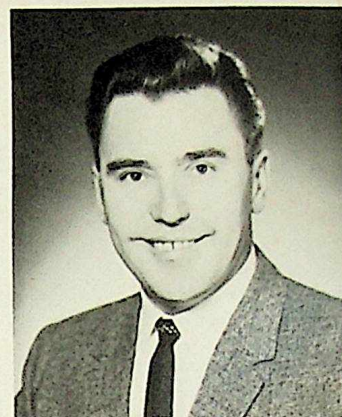

The habits, attitudes and values you acquire in school and from other aspects of your environment, will contribute more to your future success and happiness than any other factor.

Our hopes and wishes are that we have contributed something in making you a better citizen, and that your contribution to the community in the future will be better as a result of the influence of this school.

EDITORIAL

"To Strive, to seek, to find and not to yield"

TENNYSON

It is difficult to give advice, but far more difficult to accept it.

Those of you who will leave school in June will be regarded seriously as adults for the first time. Your personal abilities and dislikes will determine the career you are to follow. What I have to say, however, concerns not what you will do, but how you will do it.

We live in a world where security and certainty rule most men's lives; where the "fringe benefits" of a job are more important than its challenge. We cannot forget that it is also a world that professes free enterprise as its creed and yet enterprise of any sort becomes harder to find.

Remember success is bought; it isn't a gift. It was not the desire for personal security that urged our outstanding men to greatness. They had the initiative and the daring to take risks which are the prices of success.

We chose to follow a double theme in the 1959 Yearbook. One which is representative of both the contributions of the past and the possibilities of the future.

You are the new generation of adults. You have the adaptability and the enthusiasm for new ideas, which combined with the knowledge and experience from the past, will restore the venturesome spirit lost through the love of security.

CLASS HISTORY

JOHN AALBORG

Three years ago when we entered Westglen High School we were Freshmen, the lowest form of humanity. We came in a marvellous assortment of shapes, colors and sizes. There was an abundance of clowns, a variety of nuts, and the occasional sprinkling of those misplaced souls who feign to be studious.

Although we appeared to be a rather dubious lot, we were allowed suffrage and elected Elliot Philipson president of the Students' Union. In our first lit Tracy McLaren, portraying the Ed Sullivan type of M.C., featured on his show a skit entitled "The Lamp Went Out". Christmas exams rolled around and everyone "should" have begun studying. These passed as everything inevitably does; and everyone settled back to enjoy himself once more. Then came February, the month of the annual Sweetheart Ball, which was a tremendous success. Joan Meyers was crowned Queen of Hearts. Our first dress up day certainly added "class" to the school, but for one day only. Although there were many complaints, everyone seemed to enjoy it. The Career Day was very successful also, with genius and moron walking side by side into Law and Medicine, equally confident of the success each would attain in his chosen field. In a February basketball game Westglen featured boys as well as shapely girls in the cheerleading section. The game was followed by a sock dance well attended by players and spectators with Scona as guests.

"Music-wise" Westglen stood out very favorably with a concert, "The Night Shall Be Filled With Music"; the orchestra was conducted by Mr. Newlove and the Glee Club by Miss Parker (Mrs. Harker). In addition, Miss Parker's Glee Club participated in a nation wide Christmas broadcast. In sports Westglen shone, (feminine-wise that is). The Senior girls captured the City Volleyball Championship while the Juniors finished in second place. The Senior Girls' Basketball Team held the league's top spot all year but were eliminated in the finals.

We now learned that this, our first, was to be our last year in Westglen, for next year we would be moving to a new composite high school, Ross Sheppard, to spend the final two years of our high school life.

That fall, September, 1957 we returned as mighty Sophomores, not quite the supreme authority, but still very, very sophisticated. This year we would not be the frosh and we could do the hazing and maybe even make the Freshmen do worse things than we had had to do the previous year. Frosh Day passed without fatality and school settled back to the same old grind, except for the pounding of jack-hammers, etc., in the half finished building. Joe Clarke was elected president of the Students' Union. The two big events of the year were the Christmas Dance, "Mistletoe Madness" and the Valentine Formal "Swaying Silhouettes". Both achieved great success.

In its first year, Ross Sheppard was becoming known in the sporting field as a strong contender in city championship playoffs. The Senior girls' basketball team won the city title and the Hudson's Bay Trophy; the Senior boys won the Capher Trophy. Ross Sheppard also showed its colors curling wise, when John Trout's rink, including Bill Wilson, Bruce Walker and Doug Grant won the Irving Kline Curling Trophy during the Christmas holidays. The same team, except for John Trout, who was replaced by Bob Bradburn, went on to win the Northern Alberta Zone Finals in the Taylor and Pearson High School Bonspiel.

In the extra-curricular field two new clubs were established at Ross Sheppard during the year 1957-58, the Booster Club and the Political Science Club. The Political Science Club held a very successful Model Parliament late in the spring. The other established clubs provided activity for the students.

Last September, we returned as the "Supreme Authority" on everything. At last we were Seniors, no more to be pushed. Al Olson was elected president of the Students' Union. Once again, Frosh Day proved to be a party for the grade elevens and twelves with the grade tens as always faring miserably. Late in the fall, Ross Sheppard held a very successful "lit" featuring talent from every corner of the school. Christmas rolled around extremely fast bringing with it the inevitable exams and the annual Christmas dance. The dance was very successful, as was the Valentine's dance, "Cupid Capers". This year for the first time in two years the Ross Sheppard Drama Society featured a play "On Borrowed Time", which proved to be a financial success despite the very large production costs. The play was very capably directed by Miss Mersereau.

In the sporting field, the Ross Sheppard rink skipped by John Trout and including Bruce Walker, Dave Woods and Alan Sharp captured the Canadian High School Curling Championship. The Senior and Junior Boys' Basketball Teams also did very well, both winning City Championships.

When we entered Westglen there was a total of sixteen rooms at our disposal. Today, only three years later, we are in a school which boasts thirty-six rooms and is still in the process of expansion. This year Ross Sheppard has sixteen grade ten rooms, the total number of our whole high school only three years ago, when we entered as Frosh.

There are scores and hundreds of events not mentioned here in which we participated and bore witness to during our three years in high school. Some were very sad, yet many very gay and meaningful, most of them, events which we shall never forget.

SENIOR COUNCIL

The Senior Class activities for 1959 were co-ordinated and directed by the Senior Council. Elected in February, the Senior Council was responsible for the Senior Class Dance, Banquet, and Commencement Exercises. COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

With the co-operation of the Awards Board, a joint Commencement Exercises and Colour Night for 1959 was held on the evening of Wednesday, May 20th, in the auditorium. The exercises were highlighted by the presentation of the traditional gift to the school by Bob Pettinger, the Valedictory Address given by Lorna Clarke and the speech by the guest speaker, Dr. Buxton of the University of Alberta.

BANQUET AND DANCE

The Senior Class Banquet and Dance was held at the Jubilee Auditorium on the evening of Friday, May 22nd. The banquet started at 6:30 and lasted until 8:30.

The members of the Senior Council are to be congratulated on the success of the "Class" activities and the gratifying conclusion which they provided to the Senior year of 1959.

VALEDICTORY ADDRESS

LORNA CLARKE

Mr. Chairman;
Members of the Senior Class;
Honoured Guests;
Members of the Staff;
Ladies and Gentlemen:

After waiting with anticipation, we, as members of the Senior Class, are gathered together to bid farewell to our high school. We have climbed another step on the ladder of life.

We cannot help but feel regret because first Westglen and then Ross Sheppard High School have been a part of our lives, the fount of our memories of the benefit and enjoyment we have received. Academically we have acquired much knowledge in a short time. In classes we have learned to express ourselves, to reason and to draw conclusions. The joy and satisfaction of successful effort—overcoming obstacles, getting lessons, mastering details which we once thought difficult, have shown us that education is an achievement, not a bequest, an enrichment of life that can never be taken from us. Socially, the most important lesson has been to learn to get along with others. Dances, parties, “lits” and various clubs have all been beneficial to us as we grew up. In the athletic field, the school and staff have afforded us the opportunity to participate in many sports. We shall never forget many events, just as our parents have never forgotten some of the activities of their high school days.

Our teachers have provided a necessary impetus. We thank you now and we will thank you in later years more than our present immaturity can express.

Upon departing we say goodbye to many friends of academic halls.

*“Friends of our youth, a last adieu!
haply some day we meet again;
Yet ne’er the selfsame men shall meet;
the years shall make us other men.”*

(Sir Robert Burton)

It behooves us to look to the future because at the end of the term we will be on our own. As men and women, we will be expected to contribute to the well being of mankind. Presently we shall each become our brother’s keeper according to our gifts. The mass of humanity is a marching mass—steadily, irresistibly, incontrovertibly improving. We must not fall behind!

Thus we stand on the threshold of a new world. In all branches of knowledge and all human endeavour there is accelerating progress. The worlds for us to conquer are spiritual, philosophical, economic, political, scientific, pedagogic and artistic. Every one of us must strive to contribute to our country, our city, and our civilization. Let us hope that in the future we shall add to the health, wealth, and happiness of the world.

With this thought in mind, it is time to bid “farewell” and to look with anticipation to the future. It has been a great honour for me to have had the privilege of saying these parting words. May we begin now to meet our new challenge. Our past acclaims our future.

STUDENTS' COUNCIL

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

As the 1959 term comes to a close, Ross Sheppard has completed its first full year as a high school. It is with pride that we see its name ranking high.

Our greatest battles were fought, and our most rewarding victories were won in the field of sport. Many students enjoyed the Friday evening football games in which our teams proved to be worthy opponents. Senior and Junior City Basketball Championships were won by Ross Sheppard. Our curlers were Dominion Champions. New records were set by our swim team, and honours were gained on the courts and in track and field.

An even greater credit to our school were the outstanding academic achievements. We won essay-writing and public-speaking contests. The clubs of previous years were maintained, and new ones were formed. The work of the Drama Club culminated in the production of the yearplay, which added another credit to our school. The constitution was re-written to correlate more closely the activities of our growing Students' Union.

We now have placed the trophies in the cabinet, but past records will not be good enough to keep them there. In the forthcoming years, greater victories shall be registered if each student does his part. Support your school, and be a credit to its name.

ADVISORY COUNCIL

The Advisory Council at Ross Sheppard High School is designed to co-ordinate and make school activities run more smoothly. Whenever major changes are forecast for the constitution or whenever some group fosters new or very ambitious programs, the plan comes before the Advisory Council. Here, the President and Vice-President of the Students' Union and the teachers heading each Student Board, carefully examine the proposal on its merits. This group exchanges information and tends to resolve issues through the exchange of ideas.

Since the Council is so widely representative of school activities, it has been charged with the pleasant, though often very difficult task of picking our most outstanding students for the citizenship award. Membership on the advisory council is not an onerous task, but when a problem does arise, the decisions made are very important.

Mr. M. F. Smeltzer, Chairman

THE FINANCE BOARD

The Finance Board, composed of a chairman appointed by the Principal, a teacher who acts as financial advisor to the Publications Board, the business manager of the Publications Board, the treasurer of the Students' Union, the staff advisor to the Students' Council and the president of the Students' Union, acts primarily as an advisory group.

Being responsible to the Advisory Board rather than the Students' Council, the Finance Board thoroughly reviews the financial statements of the Students' Union. Since the Students' Union of Ross Sheppard is comparable to any business organization, this review is a comprehensive undertaking.

THE ELIGIBILITY BOARD

The major functions of the Eligibility Board is to decide who may participate in school-sponsored extra-curricular activities. By doing so, it ensures that chosen representatives are worthy of the school, and that participation is not detrimental to the student. Fortunately the occasions on which this board has had to exercise its power have been few.

THE CLUB BOARD

The Club Board acts in an advisory capacity for all non-athletic clubs in Ross Sheppard. It reviews all budgets submitted by the clubs and approves or rejects them. Throughout the year the board holds meetings to pass budgets and discuss problems. When difficulties arise such as lack of interest in a club, meetings with representatives from each club are held.

Missing: Irene Lloyd, Bill Armstrong.

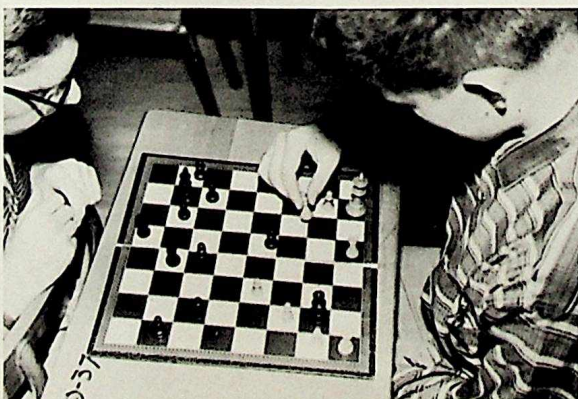

THE BOOSTER CLUB

The Booster Club was very active this year. Fulfilling its objective, the club promoted school spirit by urging the student body to participate in all school functions. Led by Janie Bolton, president; Ian Pitfield, vice-president; Wendy Smith, secretary and Mr. P. Smart, staff advisor, the organization has sponsored the following services: cheering and taking tickets at football and basketball games and ushering and checking coats at the school opening, the yearplay and school dances.

PHOTOGRAPHY CLUB

The Photography Club got underway on October the tenth and the offices were filled as following: President, Jim Mason, the Darkroom Manager, Mike Pugsley and Secretary-treasurer, Hallie Drysdale. The club had two staff advisors: Mr. Wynn and Mr. Crowle. In size the darkroom equals that of any professional studio, although it does lack some equipment. The club acquired an enlarger this year with the aid of $175.00 that the club was allotted from the Students' Council. The Photography Club undertook the job of taking pictures of nearly all the main activities this year and may even enter the "Boys' and Girls' Fair". The club membership is around thirty-five and there is room for more interested members next year.

THE CHESS CLUB

Chess is an enjoyable way to develop the mind. In this manner the Chess Club fulfilled one of its most important purposes. Each day members gathered in friendly competition to outwit their opponents with artful finesse. The daily practice proved especially useful to participants in the Chess Club tournaments.

Activities were directed by: Ken Goebel, president; Allen Imrie, vice-president and Judy Rabin, secretary-treasurer. Good sportsmanship and friendship were the codes to which the members of the Chess Club adhered. These rules were respected by all, even if a player was losing his game.

I. S. C. F.

Regular meetings were held at Ross Sheppard by the Inter-School Christian Fellowship Club, part of an inter-denominational and world-wide organization. Taking the form of singing, Bible study and discussion, the meetings helped to promote the club's purpose and motto: "To know Christ and make Him known". Conducted by John Bennett, president; Lorne Thompson, vice-president; Janet Woodside, secretary-treasurer and Mr. F. Samis, staff advisor, the meetings fulfilled a two-fold purpose: to give a greater understanding of Christianity and to provide fellowship.

THE POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB

The Political Science Club, in its second calendar year of activities, once again undertook the arrangement of a Model Parliament. After the unqualified success of last year's session, it was felt that this "exercise in Democracy" might profitably be explored further.

After elections were held in which the entire student body voted, the club began preparations for the parliament. Because the government was in a minority, interest was added to the session.

This year, through the generosity of the Students' Union, the club is proud custodian of the newest edition of Beauchesne's "Rules and Forms of Parliamentary Procedure", a boon to our legislators.

The executive which included Ross Rudolph, president; Judith Gould, vice-president and Beryl Bevington, secretary, aided the club in following its avowed objectives of familiarizing its members and the student body with the Canadian political parties and of stimulating interest in government affairs.

THE FRENCH CLUB

The newly-organized French Club was an interesting addition to the extra-curricular activities of Ross Sheppard.

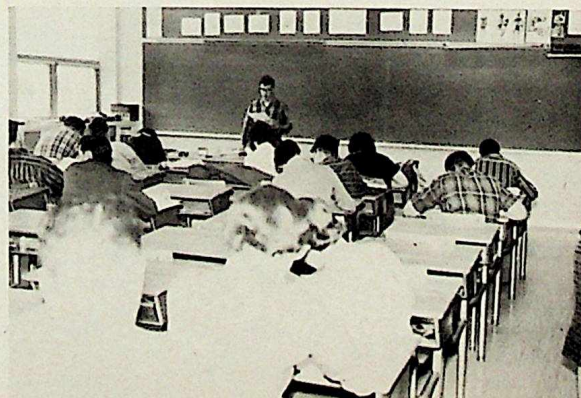

Enthusiastic French language students met once a week to learn more about France and French culture and to enjoy French songs, games, music and films. Lectures from recent visitors to France and interesting reports about famous French people were presented to the club. The entire club participated in the production of a French play which was shown to the members of French clubs from other city high schools. The club directors were: Neil Henry, president; Gary Chornell, vice-president; Deanna Innes-Taylor, secretary; Jerry Smith, chairman of the social committee and Miss M. Hardy, staff advisor.

THE LIBRARY CLUB

The Library Club was founded in the late fall under the sponsorship of Miss B. Lawrence. The executive consisted of: Daira Caune, president; Nancy Sustrik, vice-president and Catherine Siemens, secretary. Purposes of the club were to promote better library service and to encourage student interest in reading good books.

During the term, most of the members worked in the library, gaining knowledge and skill in the handling of books. At meetings, theme talks concerning the various aspects of library procedure were given, and members made a scrap-book of newspaper clippings about our school. Interesting books were publicized by displays and short book reviews. Committees were formed to stimulate interest in the club and to increase co-operation with other clubs.

"ON BORROWED TIME"

This February, under the direction of Miss Grace Mersereau, the Ross Sheppard Drama Society staged the very successful play, "On Borrowed Time".

Miss Mersereau was born in Alberta, on a ranch near Vermilion. Since then she has studied at the University of Alberta, the University of British Columbia, the University of Seattle and at the Banff School of Fine Arts. As a result, she holds two degrees: a Bachelor of Education and a Master of Education, majoring in drama.

At Westglen, she directed six yearplays, among them "Arsenic and Old Lace", "The Man Who Came to Dinner", "The Novel Princess" and "Washington Slept Here".

The headaches for this yearplay began with the choosing of it, since only a small per cent of modern plays are adaptable to high school audiences. The final choice, "On Borrowed Time", was the 1935 Pulitzer Prize Winner, written by Paul Osborn. Even this fine play required some adaptation, as originally Pud was a little boy.

The story concerns Pud, a precocious child, who adores and emulates her slightly eccentric grandfather, Julian Northrup. When her parents are killed in a car accident, she is left in the care of her grandparents; but her Aunt Demetria, partly because Pud has been left a substantial sum of money and partly because she believes the old man's influence on the child to be bad for her, attempts to adopt her. To avoid this, Gramps is determined to hold on to life a little longer, and manages to trap Mr. Brink—Death personified—in the old apple tree in the back yard. However, only Pud and he are able to see Mr. Brink, so Aunt Demetria, thinking he is insane, attempts to have him committed to an asylum. She is aided in this by Dr. Evans, who realizes the disastrous effects on the world of no one dying, and thinks the commitment papers may persuade Gramps to let Mr. Brink out of the tree. Pud decides that her Gramps is leaving because he no longer loves her, so she plans to run away. However, she falls and breaks her back. To save her from great suffering and from a life as an invalid, Gramps tells Mr. Brink to come down from the tree to take them both.

Neil Henry was in charge of the set, with Bob Allsopp, Paris Hill, Leo Moss, Derek McCune and Stan Bevington. The tree and the house presented two particular difficulties in building the set. The house had to be constructed from two-by-fours, which made it a strong, weighty structure. Mr. W. Dobrolidge helped solve the problem of constructing a tree large enough and strong enough to withstand the rigors of constant climbing. The illusion of reality which the set gave was created only through his help and advice.

The sound and lighting effects were handled by Bob Allsopp and his assistants, Hans Krussman and Martin Dobie. With the kind direction and training of a last year's "grad", Bill Meloff, a most capable job was done. Costumes were arranged and cared for by Delores Moreau and Elaini Gardiner. Reeve Dolgoy directed a make-up crew of eleven members through the intricate business of changing faces. Mrs. Kay Edwardh assisted them in their work.

Mr. Peter Smart acted as business manager, while Neil Henry headed the Publicity Committee with Stan Bevington in charge of posters. A fine sale of tickets was achieved through the co-operation of many students.

Rehearsals began immediately after Christmas and by the date set for presentation, were being held five times a week, until late at night.

Wednesday, February 25, was opening night. Lance Richards acted as Master of Ceremonies, introducing the play to the audience. During the performances difficulties with the lights were encountered. However, these were overcome and the play progressed smoothly to its completion, leaving the audience, once again, with the sense of having been well entertained.

ASSEMBLIES

THE ASSEMBLIES BOARD

The purpose of the Assemblies Board is to arrange and supervise student assemblies. By planning a varied program, board members present activities that all students appreciate.

During the past year, the "Frosh Frolic", "Holly Hop", "Cupid's Capers", and several sock dances were sponsored by the Assemblies Board. "Lit" programs gave students an opportunity to display their talents.

Awaited by seniors with eager anticipation and by freshmen with deep dread, Frosh Day dawned on September 12, 1958.

A few days before the fateful day posters were hung depicting the latest Frosh ensembles. For the girls, a homemade sack dress was complemented with a vegetable corsage, hem-lines were well above the knees, and odd socks were worn one up and one down. An eye was painted on each girl's left leg, and hair was done up in six small pony tails. To enhance the costume, the girls' faces shone devoid of any make-up.

Boys wore shirts and ties backwards, girls' skirts, and odd shoes and nylons. A big black eye completed the appearance of the well-groomed male on Frosh Day. Each victim wore a sign on his back, giving his name and phone number.

As a part of the ritual a long complimentary speech was recited with deep salaams to the superiors. Uncooperative Frosh were given "severe" sentences by judge Ross Rudolph at the afternoon Kangaroo Court.

A more friendly welcome was extended, however, when students rocked to the beat of the Nomads at the annual "Frosh Frolic".

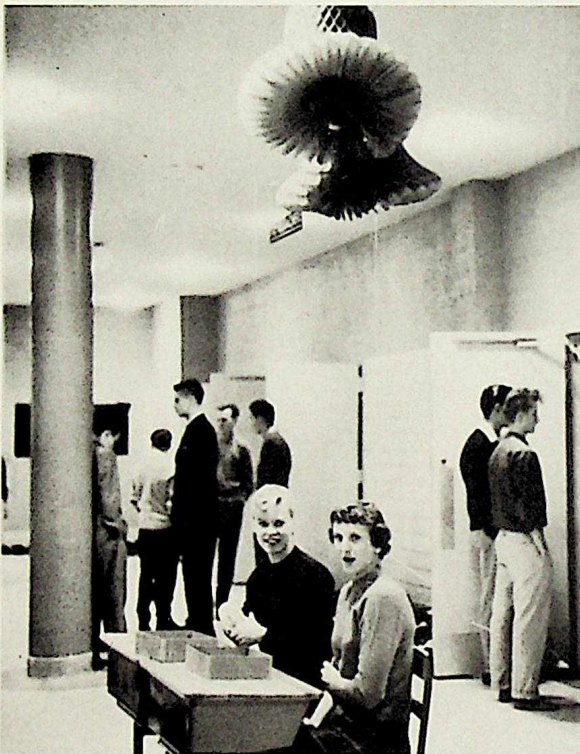

Even the Frosh now look back with enjoyment at the activities of Frosh Day.

VARIETY SHOW

On November 20, the Assemblies Board produced an hour long variety show. Saul Landa proved himself a very capable master of ceremonies, moving the show along at a fast clip and delivering snappy introduction to all the numbers. Ron Johnson opened the "Varieties" with a piano medley of popular songs. Then, Saul introduced Ray Baron, who sang "Blue Star," accompanied by Gary Douglas on the piano. Myrna Liskear chose "Moonlight Gambler" as the theme music for her interpretive dancing. Singing and playing his guitar, Don Berg set the scene for "Wild Nell, Pet of the Plains," a western skit, by the Drama Club. The next performer was Nancy Verge singing "The Day That the Rains Came Down." Ross Hicks, an expert ventriloquist, and his paper mâché protagonist ran through a clever little act called "The R and R Partners" that brought down the house. The "good old days" were brought back by gaily, bedecked beauties dancing a rousing Charleston. John McDonald was next on the programme and sang "If Dreams Came True." Then the "Strollers" brought the show to a swinging close with lots of rhythm and beat.

"HOLLY HOP"

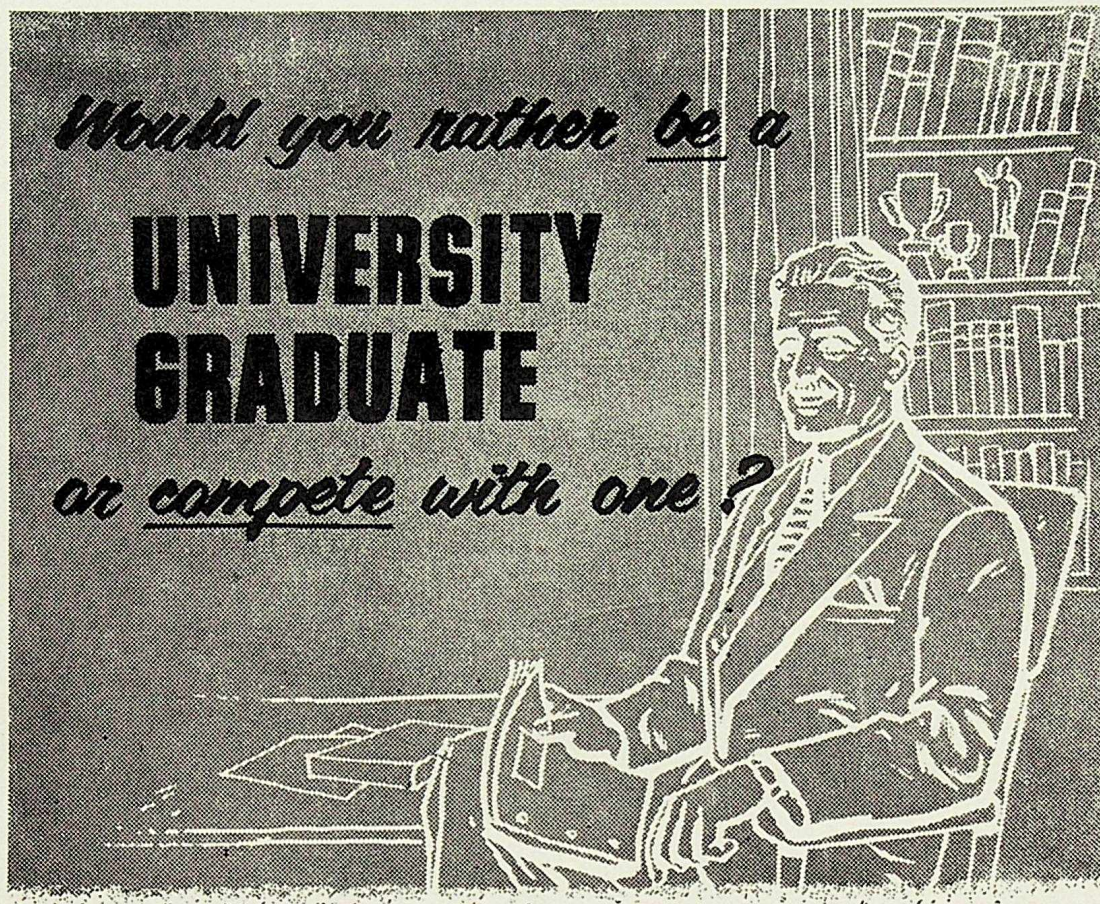

The strains of the Nomad Band welcomed the students to the "Holly Hop", our annual Christmas dance, on December 5. Festive decorations of traditional red and green created a holiday mood. Everyone agreed it was one of the most successful events of the year, both socially and financially. Above all, it was fun.

CUPID'S CAPERS

Sheppites swayed to the music of Frank McCleavy's Orchestra on February 14 at the second annual Valentine's semi-formal. The occasion was thoroughly enjoyed by everyone, including parents who were invited to "drop in" at any time between 8:30 and 11:30 p.m. when dancing was under way.

A photography service was organized by members of the Camera Club to take pictures of those who wished them and refreshments were served in the north balcony. Patrons were Mr. and Mrs. S. Olson and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Sawchuk and guests were the principal and teaching staff.

*The gypsy led his mare of dapple grey
Through leafy paths which muted out the drop
Of steel shod hooves, that on the broad highway
Would keep a pleasant rhythm with each clop.

Could not drown out the song that filled his ears,
That kept the old mare pleasantly a-nod,
And pushed away the thoughts of lonely years.
The tinker's wares which filled his caravan
Made wholesome sounds at once both sad and free.
The clang of every polished pot and pan
Made up to him for what he could not be—
A happy man content to roam and die;
Yet not to rule the world as perhaps you or I.*

HOW NOT TO GO CAMPING

For the past few years, our family has had the camping bug. Because of our experiences, I feel I am now qualified to show you how not to go camping. The first morning we got up bright and early to get a good start. The suitcases were packed the night before and in the morning father tried to pack the car. To do this, he had to be a mathematical engineer, for the female members of the family had packed enough clothes for a world tour. Since we were taking a long trip, we had to travel four or five hundred miles a day, and it was dark by the time we stopped to set up camp. We were tired and dusty. After we finally located a camp ground, and we finally found a space, we had to unpack the car. Now, we found out that the tent was at the bottom of the trunk. The whole car had to be unpacked to get to it. When the tent was finally out, we realized then that the instructions and tent pegs were home on the kitchen counter and lamps were still in the basement. So, we used sticks from the firewood for pegs, and the car lights for lamps. After struggling for an hour, the tent was finally up and the air mattresses were blown up. By this time, we were hungry. It was time for supper. The gasoline camp stove was taken out and started, the table was set and the food was prepared. Just as the food was getting hot, the stove sputtered and went out. It was out of gas! We ate cold wieners. By now, we were so exhausted and frustrated that we fell into our sleeping bags. With a hiss of air my mattress went flat. I was too discouraged to bother fixing it, so I just fell asleep. Surely there must be an easier way to go camping!

WINTER'S GIFT

Everything was as I remembered, from the locker room to the tow with its rough, new unused rope. Even the slope, bedecked in its winter cloak laced with moving color, seemed friendly and inviting, welcoming me to another season of bumps, bruises, spills and thrills. The uncertainty, the wavering ski, the rush of white, the sharp pain, the sudden relief as harnesses released their captives, became no longer faded dreams but realities. The uncontrollable shiver as a droplet of snow plotted its course down my back, the screeching of ebonite over bared rocks, the tinge of excitement when steel edges catch hold of the glimmering crystals became renewed memories. And afterward, the boisterous talk, the smell of coffee and wet leather, the scraping of heavy boots all add to the growing picture; a picture that will last until the end of snow.

GO AHEAD! BE AN ARTIST

I have heard people say that they can't make the simplest sketch of a house or even a box, let alone draw a straight line. Convincing themselves of this, they shut the door between their minds and a world of line, form and colour. For instance, in still life, the tyro may despair of moulding a vase to perfection when all that appears through charcoal smudges and erasures is a misshapen jug. By all means, call it a misshapen jug, so that no one can accuse you of attempting anything different. And after realizing that you have drawn a misshapen jug, you are satisfied with your work—and that is what you want from a hobby, isn't it? I have also heard people say upon frowning at a scrabble called modern art, they could do just as well. And so they might. Look at your neighbor's house; tell yourself what you see. There are trees, flowers, highlights and shadows. There is a board fence, an open door, and the grass is blowing wild in the wind. Form and colour. If you represent the color and concentrate on the colour, the colour alone, then your painting might have no form. Your neighbor will never recognize his back porch, because your picture hasn't any form. But painter, you've got color; and a painting. Don't deny yourself art. Start with a misshapen jug.

VISITING THE NEIGHBOURS

"Hello. Is anyone home?" I queried through the partially opened door of my neighbour's house.

"Come in and make yourself comfortable," replied Mrs. Jones rather curtly, not even getting up to see if I were friend or foe.

I entered cautiously, feeling somewhat dubious about my welcome, and joined the family. There were Mr. Jones, Mrs. Jones, Jack Jones, Jean Jones, and the family cat all staring with rapt attention at the television set. They were watching Wild William Wilhelm "fight off" a mob of rustlers as he sipped chocolate milk in the town's only saloon. Not a word was spoken until the commercial, when the family finally realized I was there. Mrs. Jones hurried off to the kitchen to get me something to eat. On returning, she tossed a Coke and a sandwich in my general direction (they were almost out of my reach) and quickly sat down to watch the remainder of the show. Finally the thrilling western was over. Wild William was killed because he spilled some milk on his gun and it slipped to the floor. On picking it up, he hit his head on the bar and broke his neck. This episode left the family in a despondent mood and only an occasional grumble was heard. Their spirits lifted considerably, however, when they realized it was time for "Creepy Playhouse". A hush settled over the room and quenched the last vestige of life. During the next commercial, Mr. Jones asked me a few polite questions about my health and well being, but before I could open my mouth to reply, a low growl from the rest reminded me that the show had begun again. I looked at my watch; deciding that it was very late (it was only eight o'clock) and that I had better be going, I thanked the Jones' family for the pleasant evening and bade them farewell. Nobody stirred. I doubt if anyone even noticed that I had gone.

Such was my visit to the neighbours; it will be a long time before I shall be persuaded to go again. After all, I can watch my own television with much less effort.

"THE BEASTS"

The common terror of all drivers in the city of Edmonton is not the over abundance of wild women or of crazy kids, but a small one-legged money-eating monster known to the driving public as the money hungry demon of the street.

These single-legged ostriches strike where it hurts the most—in the pocket-book. When you descend from a car these monsters are the first objects that "hit you in the eye". They stare at you from the confines of their mechanisms and open their mouths for nourishment. Each greedy little throat cries for food; and upon your shoulders rests the responsibility of satisfying his hunger by depositing a coin in his gaping mouth, turning his nose hard to starboard thus dispelling from his face that hated red mark of man-made destruction. Deep within the confines of his stiff, military-like body, he breathes a sigh of relief as the coins drop to their resting place. To show his gratitude he sets you a time limit on your freedom from the responsibility of providing for his insatiable hunger. If you should fail in your duty as provider, he turns and slaps you in the face with a parking ticket. This is no ordinary ticket; it guides your feet to the ever-reaching, grasping arms of a modern day courthouse where your playmate has his revenge in the form of a double fee or a thirty-day stretch in the "clink".

Escape these dreadful creatures? Why, that is impossible! You may try to evade their clutches by leaving town (the next bus is at two) and settling in a small "one-horse" town; but sooner or later these money-hungry devils will catch up with you, and then beware because they will proceed to bleed you of any worldly wealth you may have accumulated in your short period of freedom. Even in your sleep you are haunted by them. They come for you in true military fashion with handcuffs to chain you to them and to keep you there for the rest of your life. So that is why each driver, whether male or female, tries to avoid these man-made monsters. None the less, it is impossible in this day and age to escape this terror brought on by the parking meter.

TINKER? TAILOR? SOLDIER? SAILOR? WHAT SHALL I BE?

The most perplexing decision that faces a high school student is the choice of a vocation. Ross Sheppard's Annual Career Day is planned to help its students make a wise choice.

On Career Day several specially qualified persons are invited to speak about their occupations to interested students. They outline the things that are essential in becoming successful in their particular field. The amount of training, the expense, and the benefits obtained from each vocation are carefully discussed by all speakers. Students are often impressed by the advantages and disadvantages of each line of work.

In addition to the help the students receive from the speakers, pamphlets are distributed by the school's guidance service. Each pamphlet is written by an expert in that vocation and gives further assistance to the students.

Career Day helps students decide on a vocation objectively, realistically and most important of all, wisely. A right decision means success and future happiness. We sincerely hope that everyone realizes the importance of this valuable service, Career Day!

A COMPARISON OF CARL SANDBURG AND LLOYD C. DOUGLAS

As a man matures, he develops personal standards which will direct his life. A man's standards which constitute his philosophy of life, make him what he is and affect everything that he does. When Carl Sandburg and Lloyd C. Douglas are considered in the light of this idea, it appears that Sandburg is inherently a realist, while Douglas is an idealist. These contrasting philosophies caused the two to choose contrasting vocations, Sandburg, a journalist and a widely experienced man of the common people, and Douglas, a minister of the church. Each writes from the standpoint of his own vocation. Sandburg's subjects usually have something to do with the tangible, concrete problems and situations of our industrialized society. He often dwells on the more disagreeable features of human life, and even when he does choose an inspiring topic, he clothes it in industrial metaphors. Douglas, on the other hand, writes his novels to expound a theory for improving oneself, or for finding happiness. He tries to show, through the medium of fiction, that the Christian philosophy of living ultimately triumphs over the powers of evil and that those who accept that philosophy have a pattern by which they may lead exemplary lives. In conclusion, it may be said that Sandburg concerns himself with the existing situation among large masses of people, whereas Douglas is interested in the improvement of the individual.

THESE THINGS I LOVE

If ever I should leave this world, whether by rocket ship at supersonic speed or by walking slowly through the door of life to knock on the gate of heaven, I should like to carry with me the things that I would miss the most. In my pack of memories would be the fragrance of grass after a summer shower, the smell of a freshly waxed floor and the softness of a baby's skin. I would remember cold nights, with fresh air pouring into my room from a window opened wide and the comfort of a pile of warm blankets. Soft freshly washed hair, glistening in the sun, the smell of a new cotton blouse and clean fresh tissue caressing a newly scrubbed face also would be packed safely away. The mental picture of a huge tree, swaying in the breeze and giving shade to withering flowers that seek refuge from the scorching sun would have its place too. Yes, these are what I would take with me, for these are the things I love.

SPORT HAPPENINGS '58-'59

In 1958-59, Ross Sheppard became the leading school in student athletics among Edmonton High Schools.

The High School Curling Championship of Canada was won by Johnny Trout and his Ross Sheppard Rink in a thrilling contest at Calgary. Third; Bruce Walker, second; Dave Woods, and lead; Al Sharp, gave fine support to the superb skipping of Trout.

The Senior Thunderbird Basketball Team also rated high on the list of honours. After a late season slump, the boys ably coached by Lee Fairbanks, came back to capture the city championship. In Calgary, the Western High Team was the obstacle and five points the margin, separating the Thunderbirds from provincial honours.

An undefeated season was the record set by the Junior Basketball Team this year. The fine coaching of Mr. Calkins and the hustle and determination of the boys were the factors in their success. This team will form a strong nucleus for next year's Senior Thunderbirds.

Mr. Sawchuk, Mr. Calkins and Mr. Spanner had fine material for their football teams this year. Although the seniors only won two games, the margin between victory and defeat was never more than one touchdown. The juniors had a similar record losing their games by close margins. Both teams, however, had a lot of drive and the football future at Ross Sheppard looks very bright.

Each grade in our school was represented in the annual volleyball tournaments. The grade ten team completed a string of victories to walk off with the grade ten championship. The grade eleven and twelve contingents both finished in a close second place.

Ross Sheppard's badminton team looks very strong this year. Having taken second place in the past two seasons, maybe this will be a winning year for the R. S. shuttle smashers.

Track and field, the remaining interscholastic event, promises to be as strong as the surprising team of last year. If it should, it will complete what has been for Ross Sheppard an outstanding year in sports.

GIRLS' SPORTS

This school year has been a most successful one for Ross Sheppard's girl-athletes. The Senior Basketball team began the trend by coming second in the inter-school league and shortly after the Juniors repeated the feat. Although they did not cop the championship, the girls played hard and were a credit to the school.

The Senior Volleyball team also did well and continued along the pre-set path by placing second in inter-school play. The Junior Girls outdid their sisters by winning the League Championship.

The Swim Club swam once each week at the "Vic" Pool and in January a team was chosen. At the first inter-school meet, which Ross Sheppard won, Margit Bako broke her own breaststroke record, Dolores Donnenworth broke her backstroke record and both girls' medley and free style relay records were broken. Our school placed second in the final city-wide meet.

In Grade 11 and Grade 12, the Red House won the House League Basketball Tournament and in Grade 10 the champions belonged to the Green House. At Vic's House Party the Red House tied with Vic and the Green House came third. The Grade 12 volleyball was won by the Green House and two Red House teams tied for first place in Grade 10. Badminton doubles were won by Marlene Anderson and Lynn Davies in Grade 12 and by Lynne Coates and Janet Chorney in Grade 11.

House leagues were begun to give each student a chance to participate in intramural sports. The girls express their appreciation to Mrs. Harle and Miss McCallum for their splendid leadership.

CITIZENSHIP AWARDS

The Citizenship Award is presented for outstanding service in extra-curricular activities, a good academic standing and exceptional qualities of leadership. Lorna Clarke has distinguished herself in all three fields and also as a quick-witted and sparkling personality.

Lorna was born in Edmonton in December, 1941. She attended Oliver and New Glenora Elementary Schools. Her Junior High School years were spent at Westminster, where Lorna shone academically. Because of her high marks and popularity, she was elected vice-president of the Students' Union in Grade Eight and in Grade Nine she acted as class historian and received both citizenship and academic awards.

Last year, in Grade Eleven, Lorna played senior basketball, was elected an alternate room representative and convened the Graduation Tea. This year she once again played senior basketball, besides taking on the heavy responsibilities as the executive representative of the Assemblies Board. Her excellent work brought her a major service award.

Out of school, Lorna is interested in skiing and dancing. She has appeared in several Edmonton Light Opera Productions and is a member of the Royal Academy of Dancing. For the past three years, she has worked at the Bay and for the past two years has been an active member of Hi-Y and Y-Teens.

Next year Lorna hopes to attend the University of Alberta as a Sociology major in the Arts Faculty. We think she will be a success in whatever field she enters, for Lorna is one who accepts the responsibility of a job and does it well.

NEIL HENRY

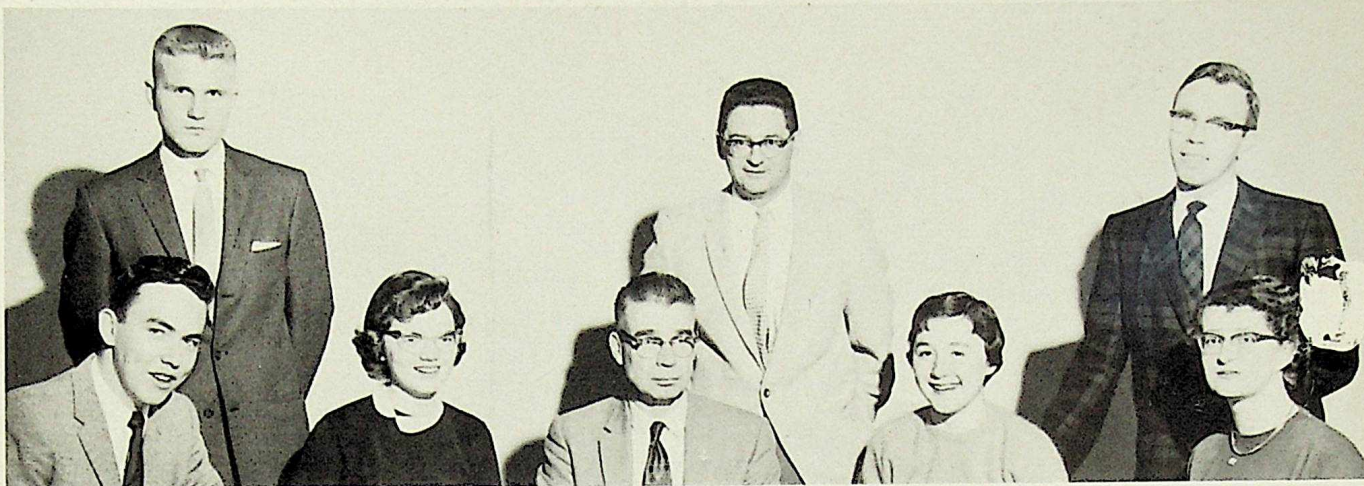

Neil Henry is known to all of us as an industrious worker who devotes much of his time and energy to extra-curricular activities. Consequently, we were all pleased, but not the least bit surprised, to learn he had won the coveted Citizenship Award.

Neil has always been on the go, it seems. He was born in Natal, South Africa in 1941 and at the age of three moved to Egypt and then to Palestine. He spent the dying days of the war in Britain, moving to Germany in 1945. Neil lived in Germany for seven years, commuting to a boarding school in Scotland for the last two. Then, fortunately for Ross Sheppard, Neil's parents decided to immigrate here. Neil was soon placed in Riverdale School and then attended Strathearn. In the middle of Grade Nine he moved once more, this time to Westminster Junior High School. Although he'd lost a great deal of school time and encountered many difficulties adjusting to our school system, Neil passed his Grade Nine Departmentals with honors.

At Westglen High School, Neil again won academic honors in Grade Ten. The following year he captured both an academic and a major service award for his outstanding work as Treasurer of the Students' Union. This year Neil plunged into extra-curricular work. He was elected president of the newly-formed French Club; he worked as stage-manager for the Yearplay; he was the executive representative from Publications; and lastly, he served as editor of the Yearbook, a very time-consuming job. Yet he still managed to obtain a minor academic award and of course, a major service award.

Although still uncertain about the future, Neil does want to attend university and will do so probably as an Arts major. Neil's life will always be touched with success, no matter what his occupation, for he has a tremendous capacity for work which he executes with an efficiency above and beyond the call of duty.

AWARDS BOARD

Standing: Jack Rogers, Mr. B. Spaner, Mr. M. Clarke.
Seated: Doug Harley, Lynne Manning, Mr. F. Tarlton, Jean Begg, Miss M. Hardy.

The responsibility of the Awards Board is to recognize the contributions of students to the school. The primary function of the board is to receive nominations for award winners and to make recommendations to the Advisory Board. In addition, the board is in charge of purchasing and displaying awards. Also, it makes proposals for additional awards, trophies and other means of recognition.

A major academic award consisting of a crest and a certificate is given to students who obtain an average of 80 per cent and higher. Those who have an average between 75 and 80 per cent are awarded a certificate. The averages are determined from academic subjects only, the final percentage consisting of one-third of the student's Christmas mark and two-thirds of his Easter mark.

Service awards are given to students who have made outstanding contributions to the extracurricular activities of Ross Sheppard. To recognize the varying degrees of service rendered two kinds of awards are given, a major and a minor award.

Outstanding Athletes are presented major and minor athletic awards on the recommendation of the Athletic Board.

Letter of thanks.....

The Yearbook is one of the largest projects undertaken by the students of Ross Sheppard. Consequently, it requires an extremely wide variety of services and talents. It is to the people who have provided these and made the yearbook a reality that we would like to show our gratitude.

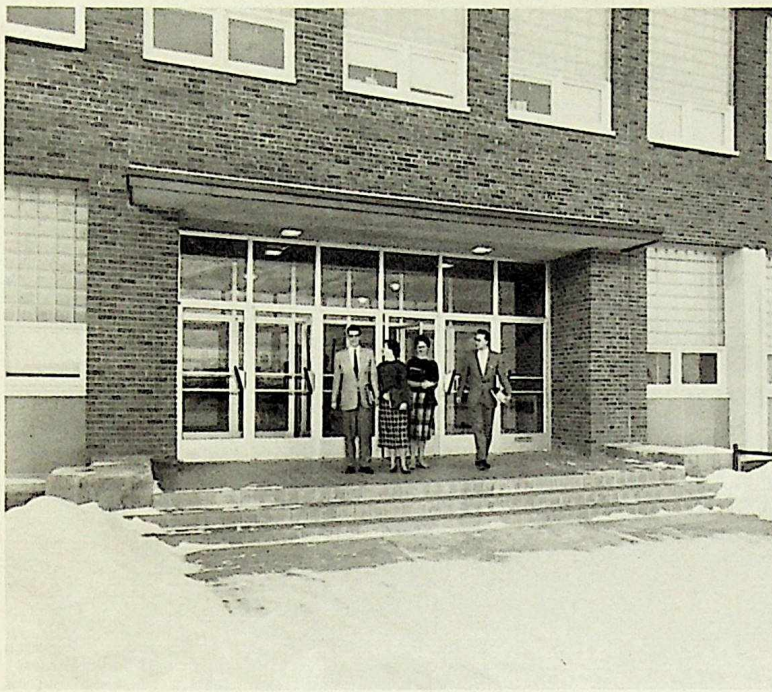

Thanks:

To Mrs. Silcox, our financial advisor and board chairman, to Mrs. Edwardh for her invaluable help in the literary work and to the artists, writers, typists and photographers who formed the yearbook staff.

To the office and the caretaking staff who have been more than co-operative.

To the many advertisers, without whose interest and support the 1959 Yearbook would not have been possible.

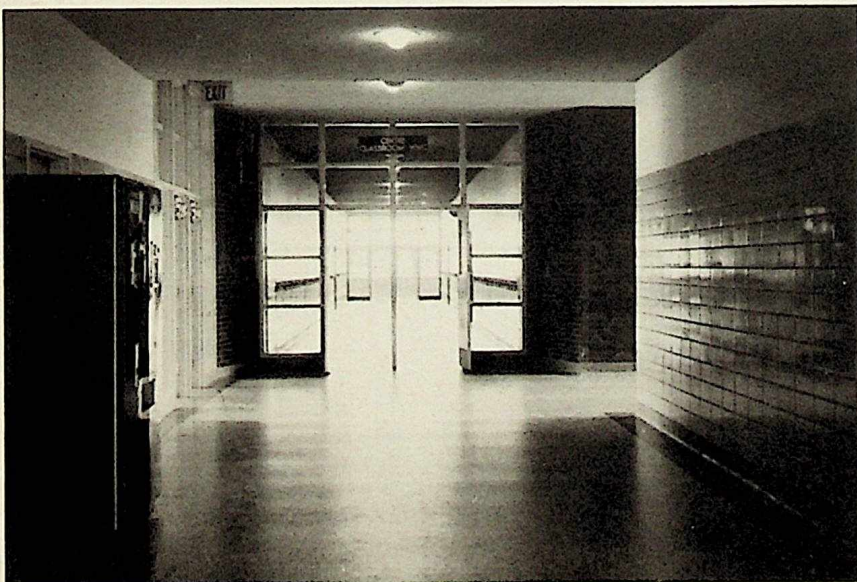

And finally, to Goertz Studios who have cheerfully met the difficulties which arose in the taking of photographs and The Hamly Press whose artistic and technical advice have helped to make the Courier a yearbook of which we may all be proud.
